

List 3 ways in which you could create a chilling atmosphere if you were writing a story...

1.

2.

3.

SETTING

Big Question: How can tension be built?

Look at the following image of a normal street...

Now write a paragraph about this street to make it seem sinister.

I can connect what I am reading to other texts, to myself and to the world.

Review of Learning:

- What is meant by the term 'foreshadowing' and how/where is foreshadowing used in the story 'The Landlady?'

I can connect what I am reading to other texts, to myself and to the world.

I can read quickly to find specific facts within the text.

SETTING

Big Question: How does the setting build tension?

Foreshadowing

The writer is giving you clues as to what will happen later on in the story.

Find examples of foreshadowing

Example of foreshadowing (quote)	What does this suggest may happen?

INFERRING

I can use clues from the text to form an opinion or guess something.

EVALUATION

Big Question: How successful is the writer at building tension?

Evaluate

Definition: to make a judgement on something.

We are making a judgement on whether or not we think Roald Dahl successfully builds tension.

Evaluate how Roald Dahl uses the setting to create tension.

What should my work look like?

How do I start?

P POINT: Firstly, Roald Dahl build tension

E EVIDENCE: through the use of the quote, ' _____ '.

T TECHNIQUE/METHOD: The use of the _____ E Evaluation: creates tension as _____

R Reader Response: This is effective because _____. A reader may feel _____

INFERRING

I can use clues from the text to form an opinion or guess something.